KEYNOTE SPEAKER CHRISTINA MEREDITH

Christina Meredith, a native of St. Augustine, Florida, overcame years of sexual, emotional, and mental abuse, trauma, foster care, poverty, and homelessness to become a symbol of hope and resilience. After aging out of the foster system and spending over a year homeless, she moved to California, where she worked odd jobs before being encouraged to enter the Miss California pageant—ultimately winning the title in 2013. Her inspiring journey, detailed in her best-selling memoir CinderGirl (soon to be a major motion picture), chronicles her transformation through faith, hard work, and determination. Christina later became a commissioned officer in the U.S. Army, graduated from college, and founded a nonprofit dedicated to supporting abused and foster youth. She has since received numerous accolades, including ISF's Community Impact Award, and has spoken nationwide—appearing on major news outlets and before Congress—advocating for child welfare reform and trauma-informed care. Her message centers on the power of dreams and the ability to rise above even the darkest circumstances.

WORKSHOP SESSION 1: 9:30 to 10:45AM

OPTION 1A

It Took a Village: How School & Teachers Saved My Life

Keynote Speaker: Christina Meredith

By the time she reached high school, the chronic abuse that Christina Meredith had endured had crippled her ability to learn. Traumatized by sexual abuse by her uncle and psychological and physical abuse by a mentally ill mother with substance use disorder, she actually believed that she had lost her capacity to learn. Then, teachers saved her life. From buying her food when she was too hungry to concentrate to spending hours providing her with tutoring to catch up, graduate, and eventually go on to college and career, their caring made a difference. Finally faced with a solid support system, they also gave Christina the courage to speak out about her home life and find safety and stability in foster care. In this inspiring talk, Christina talks about how teachers literally saved her life and how their caring inspired her to help other children surviving trauma or aging out of foster care.

Empowering Safe Futures: Understanding the Impact of Domestic Violence on Children and the Role of Protective Factors

Speaker: Lindsey Crusan-Muse

Children who are exposed to domestic violence often face emotional, behavioral, and developmental challenges that can impact them well into adulthood. This workshop will help participants better understand the effects of domestic violence on children; how to respond effectively to support the child and non-offending guardian(s); and how protective factors at the individual, relationship, and community level can reduce the short and long-term negative consequences of exposure to domestic violence.

Lindsey Crusan-Muse is the Director of Crime Victim Services at St. Peter's Health Partners in the Capital Region, where she has led efforts to support victims and prevent crime for over 17 years. She oversees nine programs serving more than 5,000 victims annually and educating over 35,000 community members and professionals. Lindsey also holds leadership roles on several statewide and regional councils focused on violence prevention and victim advocacy. She earned her B.A. in Psychology and Communications from Hamilton College.*

Cracks in the Story: When Broken Bones Raise Red Flags

Speaker: Dr. Pekarsky & Dr. Ray

This workshop explores how certain fracture patterns in young children should raise concerns for physical abuse, while some are more likely to be consistent with an accidental mechanism or even a medical problem. Using real case examples and visual aids such as bone models, this presentation highlights key red flags, fractures that are highly specific for child abuse, fractures that are commonly seen in mobile children and the importance of a thorough medical evaluation completed by a child abuse medical professional. Attendees will learn about the appropriate medical evaluation; the importance of multidisciplinary teamwork will be highlighted.

Dr. Alicia Pekarsky is an Associate Professor of Pediatrics at SUNY Upstate Medical University, Director of the Child Abuse Pediatrics Division, Co-Medical Director of McMahon/Ryan Child Advocacy Center and Program Director for the Child Abuse Pediatrics fellowship at Upstate. Dr. Pekarsky is also the pediatric representative on the NYS Children's Justice Task Force and the NYS Child Fatality Review team. She is currently working with Dr. Ann Botash and others on a $750,000 grant from NYS Office of Children and Family Services to survey medical professionals working at Child Advocacy Centers to assess their needs, provide education to multi-disciplinary teams and create a peer-review network. In 2024 she was elected to a 3-year term on the American Academy of Pediatrics Council on Child Abuse and Neglect Executive Council. Dr. Pekarsky took the first board exam in this field in 2009 and subsequently became one of the first 191 American Board of Pediatrics certified Child Abuse Pediatricians in the US. She has evaluated more than 4,000 children for suspected maltreatment and has received state, national and international recognition for her work in this field over the past 20 years.*

Dr. Elizabeth Ray obtained her undergraduate degree from Boston University in 2016, and her medical degree from New York Medical College in 2020. She completed her Pediatrics Residency in 2023 at SUNY Upstate in Syracuse, NY, and has been continuing at the same hospital for her fellowship in Child Abuse Pediatrics. Dr. Ray will finish her fellowship at Upstate in Summer of 2026. She has a special interest in fractures, and in pediatric ingestions, and is working on research in this area.*

That Kid Did What?!?! Understanding and Helping Children and Teens with Problematic Sexual Behavior

Speaker: Jimmy Widdifield

Children and teens engage in sexual behaviors that range from developmentally expected to problematic and harmful. However, many professionals often misinterpret normative behaviors and are also unequipped to effectively address genuine problematic sexual behaviors (PSB). As a result, many children and teens with PSB do not receive the types of services that support a helpful multidisciplinary coordinated response or healthy behavioral functioning and family healing. This lecture will provide research-based information to help participants learn about sexual development in children and teens and problematic sexual behavior (PSB), identify potential contributing factors to PSB, dispel common misconceptions about these behaviors and children and teens, and have a more robust and evidence-informed response cases of child/teen-initiated PSB.

Jimmy Widdifield, Jr., MA, is a Licensed Professional Counselor (Oklahoma) and training and technical assistance provider in child maltreatment, trauma, and adversity. He is the Project Director for Grant Training and Resources at the National Children's Advocacy Center. This national grant provides multi- and interdisciplinary TTA on child maltreatment to enhance professional development and response in the field. Mr. Widdifield has experience planning and providing TTA, nationally and internationally, to child maltreatment professionals with an emphasis on the research and treatment of youth with problematic sexual behavior and, also, youth with marginalized sexual orientations and/or identities. Mr. Widdifield is a graduate of the Interdisciplinary Training Program in Child Abuse and Neglect at the University of Oklahoma Health Sciences Center.

OPTION 2B

The Power Of Prevention Education

Speaker: Derrick Brill

"The Power of Prevention Education" is an engaging and interactive session designed for anyone who want to play an active role in protecting children from sexual abuse. Grounded in real-world experience and hands-on tools, this presentation explores how age-appropriate body safety education empowers children, builds resilience, and fosters a culture of prevention in schools. Participants will engage with the very materials used in classrooms, experience the lessons through a child's eyes, and leave with practical strategies to overcome barriers, spark meaningful conversations, and create safer spaces for all kids.

Derrick Brill is the Lead Outreach and Education Specialist at McMahon Ryan Child Advocacy Center. Derrick has worked in education for over 18 years. Derrick spent 8 years working at a school on the southside of Chicago before returning home to Brewerton, NY, to obtain his degree as an Occupational Therapy Assistant. Since graduating, Derrick has worked at the CAC for 4 years providing Prevention education to children and adults, all across the county.

When Removals are Necessary: Understanding the Trauma of Removal in Child Welfare Services

Speaker: Kelly Varamogiannis

This interactive discussion will focus on the child welfare decision making leading up to a removal and explore the potential impact of trauma on children placed in the foster care system through a guided imagery experience.

Kelly Varamogiannis first started her career in child welfare at Schenectady County Department of Children & Family Services. She then went to work for the Center for Development of Human Services where she trained child welfare workers throughout NYS and quickly rose to oversee and manage the statewide implementation of the KEYS model of child welfare supervision. Kelly is now Deputy Commissioner of Onondaga County Department of Children and Family Services where she utilizes her skill, knowledge, and expertise to guide her staff as they work to meet positive outcomes for children and families.

WORKSHOP SESSION 4: 3:15 to 4:30 p.m.

OPTION 4A

CE-CERT: A New Paradigm for Addressing Secondary Traumatic Stress, Moral Distress, and Burnout

Speaker: Jimmy Widdifield

All professionals who work in child maltreatment are at risk of experiencing burnout, moral distress, and secondary traumatic stress (STS). While there is an increase in recognizing and addressing these experiences, typical strategies often focus on aftercare which fall short of providing a long-term meaningful impact. Components for Enhancing Career Experience and Reducing Trauma (CE-CERT) is a paradigm shift in how we conceptualize and address burnout and STS. Based on current evidence, CE-CERT organizes practical skills we all know or are easily acquirable in a way that supports well-being throughout the day and establishes new habits that more effectively mitigate the impact of burnout and STS. This session will overview the conceptual foundation and five practice components of CE-CERT. Participants will learn skills they can immediately use to support their well-being and that of others.

Jimmy Widdifield, Jr., MA, is a Licensed Professional Counselor and, also, the Project Director for Grant Training and Resources at the National Children's Advocacy Center. Mr. Widdifield is an experienced TTA provider in child maltreatment with an emphasis on the research and treatment of youth with problematic sexual behavior and, also, youth with marginalized sexual orientations and/or identities.

What are we fighting for?!

Speaker: Tony DeVincenzo

Often, multidisciplinary teams struggle with engaging their team members in meaningful ways. This workshop will explore how Vision, Mission, Purpose and Meaning can inspire greater team buy-in and participation from MDT partners.

Tony DeVincenzo is a Training Specialist with the Northeast Regional Children's Advocacy Center, where he provides training and technical assistance to Child Advocacy Centers (CACs) and Child Abuse Multidisciplinary Teams (MDTs) across the Northeast Region. In addition to his direct work with CACs and MDTs, Tony presents workshops on a variety of child advocacy topics at regional and national conferences. Prior to his current role, Tony served as the Director of Programs and MDT Coordinator at Deirdre's House, the CAC for Morris County, New Jersey, where he oversaw services and coordinated the county's multidisciplinary response to child abuse. Tony's work is built on a 25-year career in law enforcement in New Jersey, where he served as a patrol officer with the Roseland Police Department and as a Detective with the Morris County Prosecutor's Office, specializing in crimes against children. His combined expertise in law enforcement, CAC leadership, and MDT facilitation strengthens his commitment to improving outcomes for children.
